

GULF COAST BREEZE.

J. LOVICK ADAMS, Editor,

CRAWFORDVILLE, FLA., Dec. 16 1898

VOL. 2. NO. 26

LOCAL

Oysters are brought into Crawfordville every week now.

Drummers have been thick in Crawfordville the past week.

Mr. C. C. Harrel made a business trip to Newport Tuesday.

Col. R. Don McLeod made a business trip to Tallahassee this week.

Mr. Joe Andrew left this week to accept a position in Brunswick Ga.

The holiday season was ushered in last Saturday with several horse races.

The recent freezes have seriously injured cane, and potatoes left in the ground.

In spite of hard times Wakulla is steadily improving, and new buildings continue to go up all over the county.

Our farmers have been unusually late grinding their cane this year, and some will not finish until after Christmas.

Hon. S. M. Revell, of Ashmore, is here today on business. He reports several new buildings going up in his village.

The season for merrymaking is on, and our young folks are making good use of it with dances and frolics all over the county.

Sunday week will be Christmas day. Old Santa Claus will have to begin early Christmas night, to get through before the morning.

Lots of the cotton made in Wakulla this year was not gathered at all, the price not being sufficient to pay the expenses of preparing it for shipment.

Capt. W. W. Walker is having the space between his store and warehouse filled in with a large room in order to increase his already large stock of goods.

The low price of fish has been quite a set-back to Wakulla this year. Although the usual number of fish have been caught, not half the profit has been realized.

Although legally a "dry" county, old Wakulla is anything but dry at this season of the year. With blackberry wine and cane beer, what does anybody want with a bar room.

Wakulla can boast of as many worthless pointer dogs as any other county in the Union, as well as a few good ones. Any man who hasn't got at least two pointers, is not "in it" at all.

A very interesting sermon was delivered here Sunday by Rev. Mr. Householder, presiding elder of this circuit. Owing to the inclement weather the congregation was small.

The new home of Mr. Sharper Council on the Shell Point road near Cherokee Sink, is nearly finished, and he will probably move in before the new year, leaving the Barco place untenanted.

It must have been very gratifying to Gen. Garcia to see the end accomplished before he died to which he had devoted his entire life, the freedom of his country. His all he gave to free his native land from the bondage and tyranny of Spain, and he died from exposure while serving Cuba.

The sandy shallow beach on the North side of Bream Fountain where the boys go in bathing in Summer, has all dropped in since the freshest the latter part of last summer. This was the only shallow place in this beautiful tide sink, and it is now almost as deep as the bottomless pit all around.

Hog cholera will soon be compelled to seek greener fields, as it has just about cleaned up the hogs everywhere it has appeared in this county. This is the one serious drawback to hog raising in Florida, and it is the exception rather than the rule in this section.

With her shingle mill and Fibre Factory in operation, St Marks will be one of the busiest towns of her size in the South, and if she continues to build who knows but that she may yet regain the important position she once held as a shipping point.

The band of horsetraders who had been encamped near town for about a week, moved out Monday to seek green fields, and perhaps "greener" people. They did but little swapping while here.

An extra meeting of the county school board will be held next Friday, for the purpose of paying off the teachers so that they can attend the Florida State Teachers Association at St. Augustine.

Notice.

Is hereby given that thirty days from the date hereof I will apply to Hon. S. J. Giles Judge of the probate court of Wakulla County State of Florida for an order to sell at private Sale a portion of the lands in said county belonging to the Estate of the late Andrew J. Tully deceased of said county and state.
